Yancey County Employee Earns Prestigious Extra Mile Award

Tropical Storm Fred impacted thousands of lives in Western North Carolina on Aug. 17 and in the following weeks.

Jake Fox and his family were among them.

So were Yancey County residents who regularly use a bridge on N.C. 197 to get to Burnsville. The storm crippled the bridge and forced residents to take an hour-long detour to visit Burnsville.

So Fox and his crew members expedited plans to help a contractor install a temporary bridge to reconnect the community. His extraordinary efforts earned Fox the NCDOT Extra Mile Award, signed by Secretary Eric Boyette and presented by Division Engineer Mark T. Gibbs.

Fox worked 20 consecutive hours on Aug 23, excavating a roadway, building a location to place the temporary bridge and helping a contractor pour 150 yards of concrete, in addition to other tasks.

As his supervisor wrote, "Jacob Fox is a great employee and deserves to be recognized for his performance during the extensive flooding we had last week. He worked long hours during the flooding and had to walk to and from his house because his own bridge had been damaged. He wanted to work to help his community recover."
